Members also volunteer their time to make a difference in local communities and over the Christmas period became many Father Christmases at gardens centres in Winnersh and Hare Hatch. The club has also recently worked with Leighton Park School in Reading and will be launching a Youth Art competition during the October half term.

Pat said that Maiden Erlegh Rotary Club were always keen to welcome new members and urged people to consider joining them.

Other projects for the University include the management and maintenance of green spaces owned by the University but located away from the University campus. One of these green spaces being Swallows Meadow in Earley, where the University has worked with the local community groups and the Town Council to improve the accessibility of the site for local residents by clearing pathways, installing kissing gates and signage. The University has also worked with local group Freely Fruity who provided and planted 60 native fruit trees and bushes.

The University’s plan is to continue monitoring the site and to work on the developing the site further to enhance it for the local community and link it into an Earley green corridor.

4.4 Earley Repair Café – Andrew Bradley

The original Repair Café was the idea of Martine Postma and the first ever Repair Café was held on 18th October 2009 in Amsterdam. Since then, over 2,500 repair cafes are operating worldwide, with the aim of reducing the amount going to landfill, moving away from a “throw away” culture and passing on repair skills.

The Earley Repair Café opened on Sunday 13th October 2024 and is held the second Sunday of every month at Centrepoint Community Centre from 10.00am to 1.00pm. It has 5 organisers and 28 volunteers who help in various roles.

Since it opened, 243 items have been registered, with 53% being fully repair and 15% being partially repaired or due to return. The Earley Repair Café looks to repair items such as clothes, soft toys, bikes, electronics, tools, furniture and anything else that may come through its door and repairers encourage people to sit and watch them, with the aim of passing on their repair skills.

The Earley Repair Café does not charge for repairs but will gratefully accept donations, which help towards running costs and supplies and it welcomes anyone to come along with a repair or to just pop in for a cup of tea and a chat.

It produces weather forecasts, works on climate change models and carries out scientific and technical research to improve weather forecasting, all of its work is of a sensitive nature and requires a high level of security.

Since 1970, the Headquarters have been located at Shinfield Park, but the site is no longer fit for purpose and as the ECMWF accepted the UK’s offer to continue as a host nation, the Headquarters will be moving site to the University of Reading’s Whiteknights campus.

Photos of the new site were shown to the meeting and attendees were told that the new Headquarters will have 300 members of staff, will have a lecture theatre and a Council Chamber, along with a restaurant. The proposed completion date of the move is Spring 2027.
